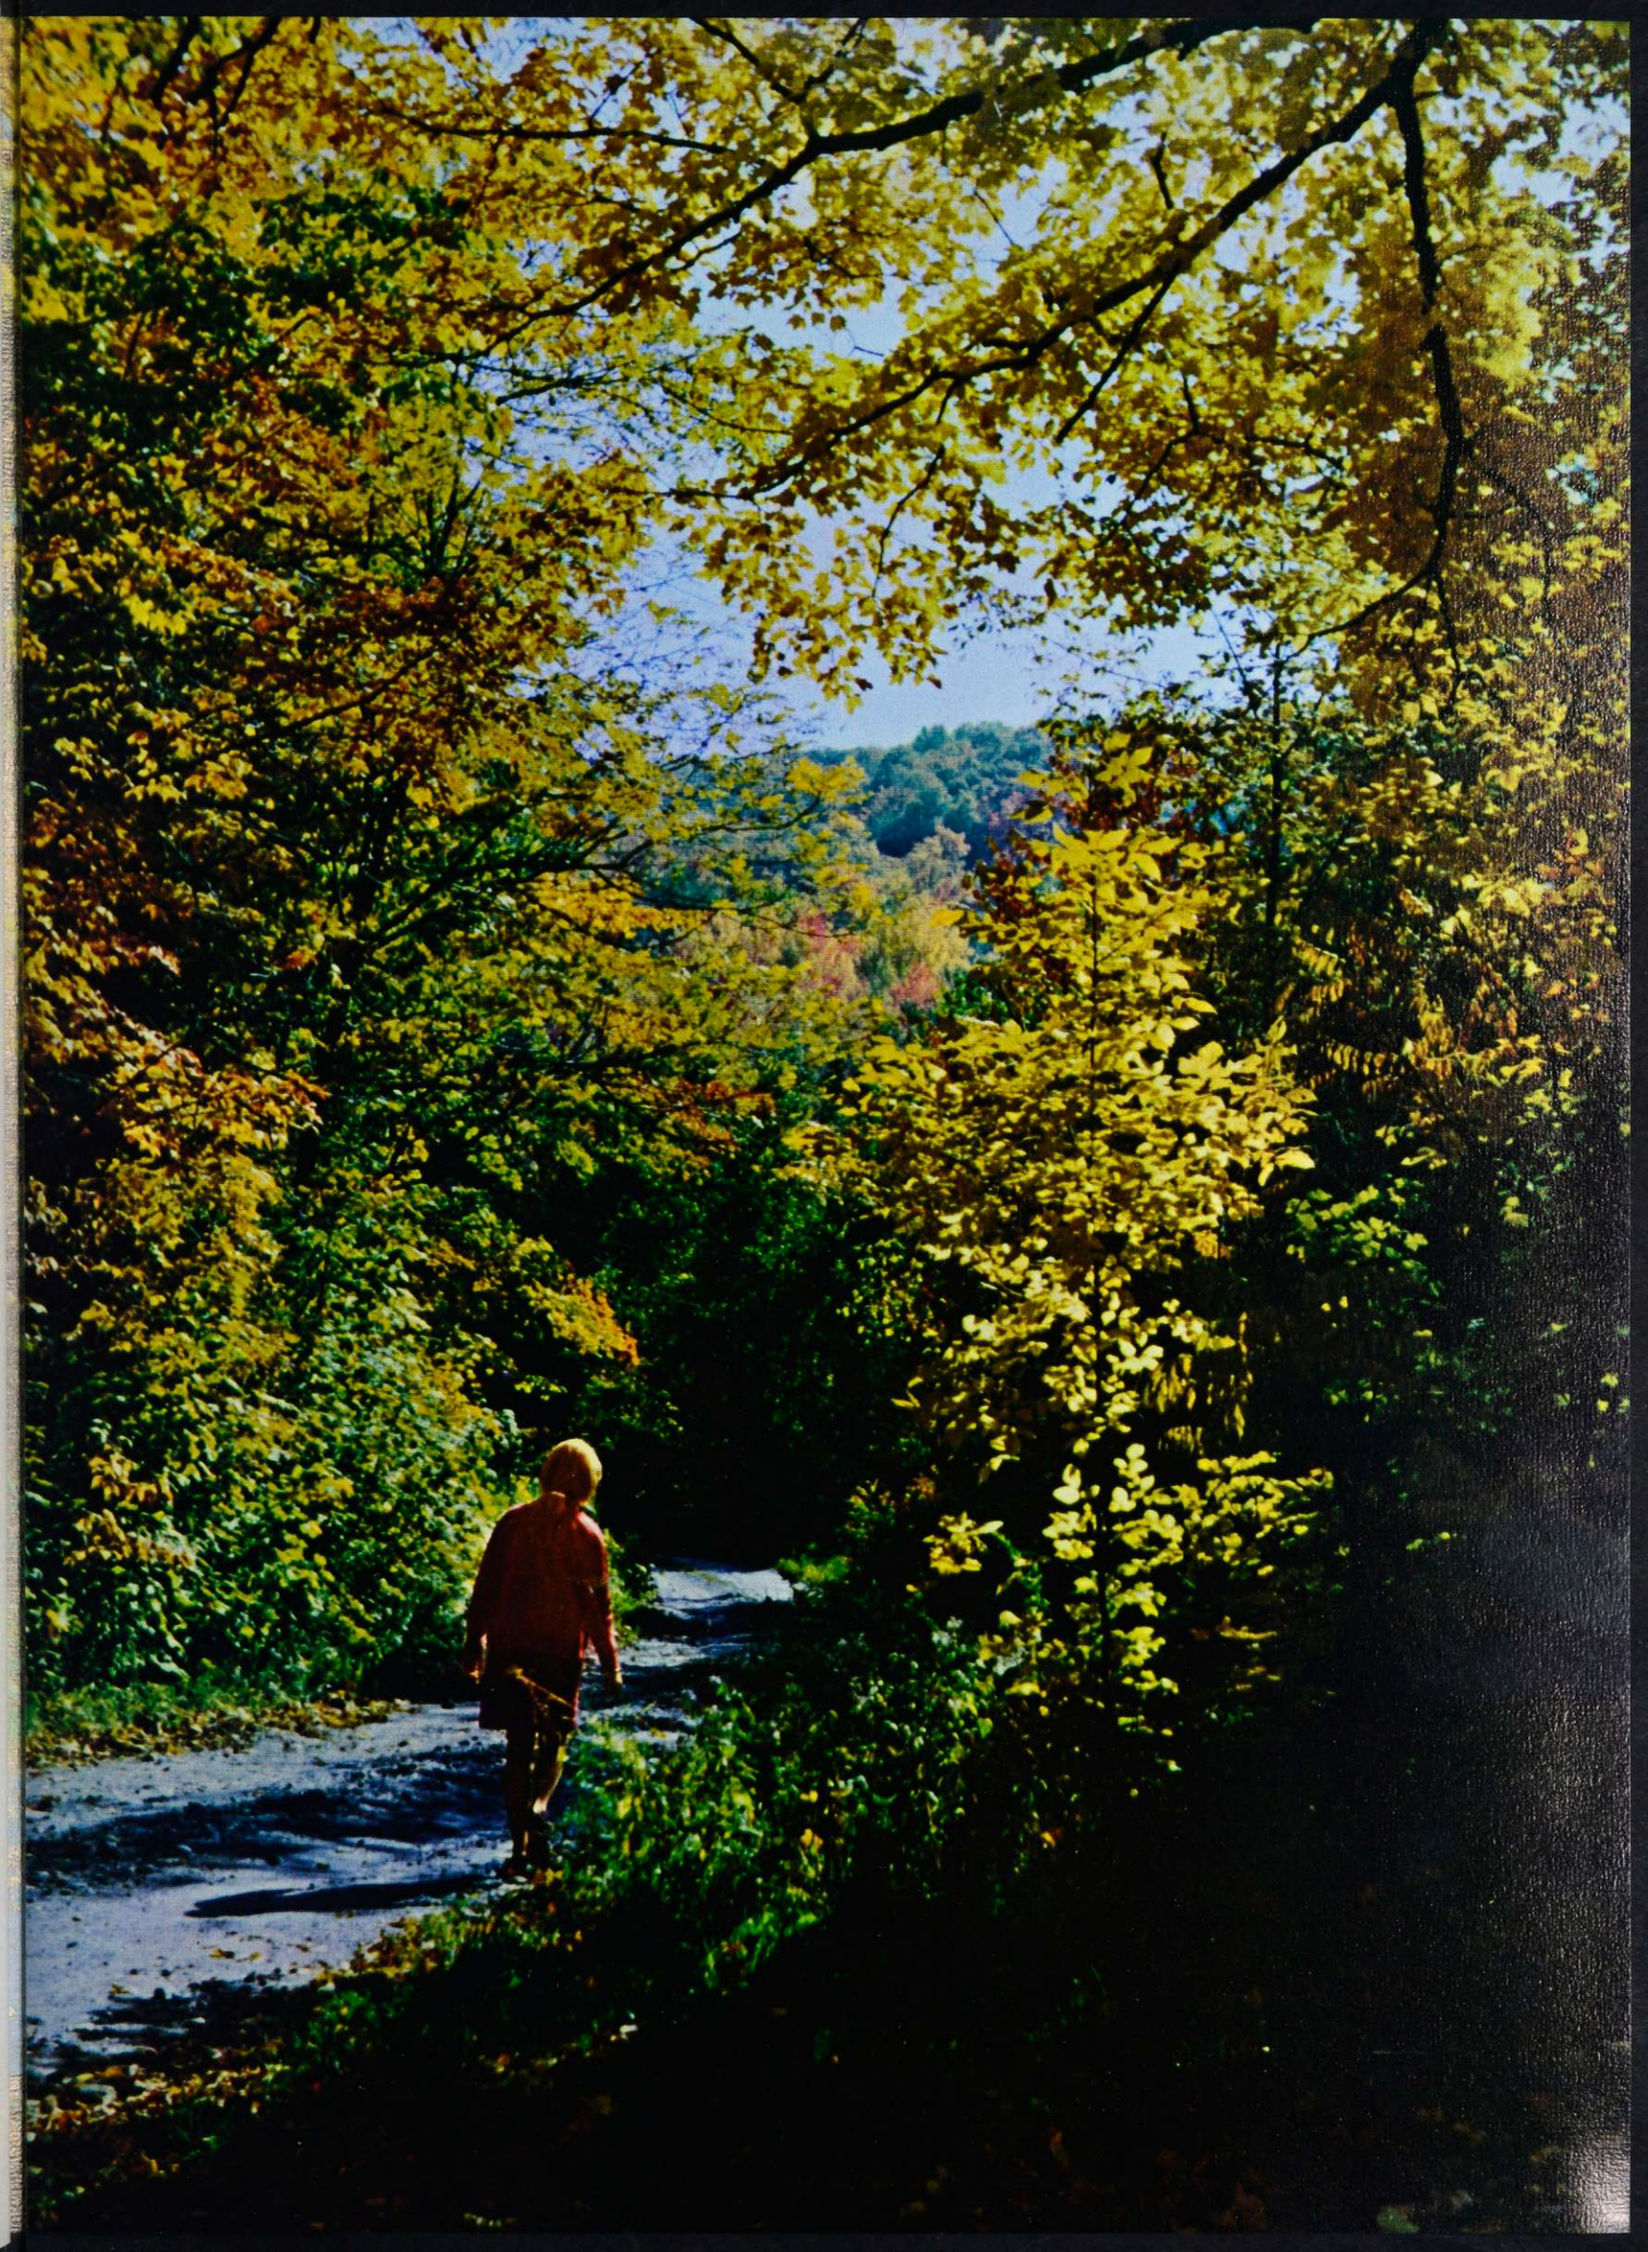
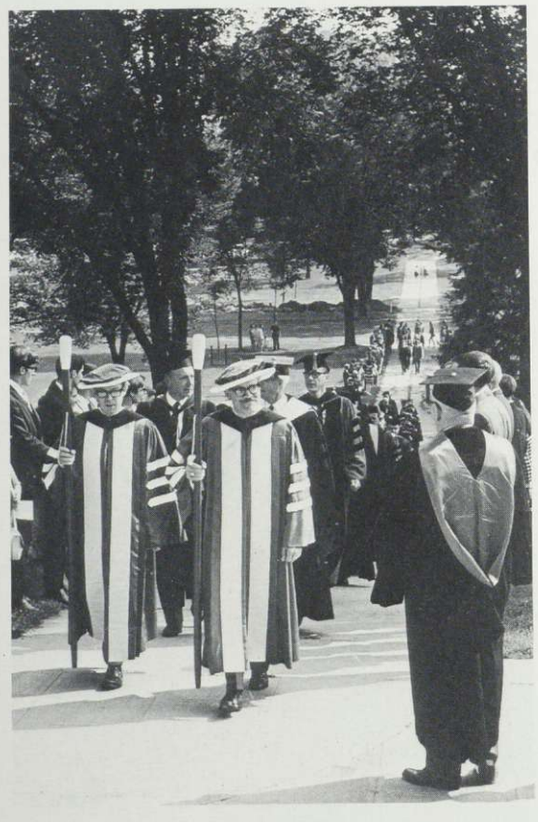
In that moment, the golden towers of man, his swarming millions, his turning wheels, the vast learning of his packed libraries, would glimmer dimly there in the ancestor of wheat, a few seeds held in a muddy hand. Without the gift of flowers and the infinite diversity of their fruits, man and bird, if they had continued to exist at all, would be today unrecognizable . . . The weight of a petal has changed the face of the world and made it ours.

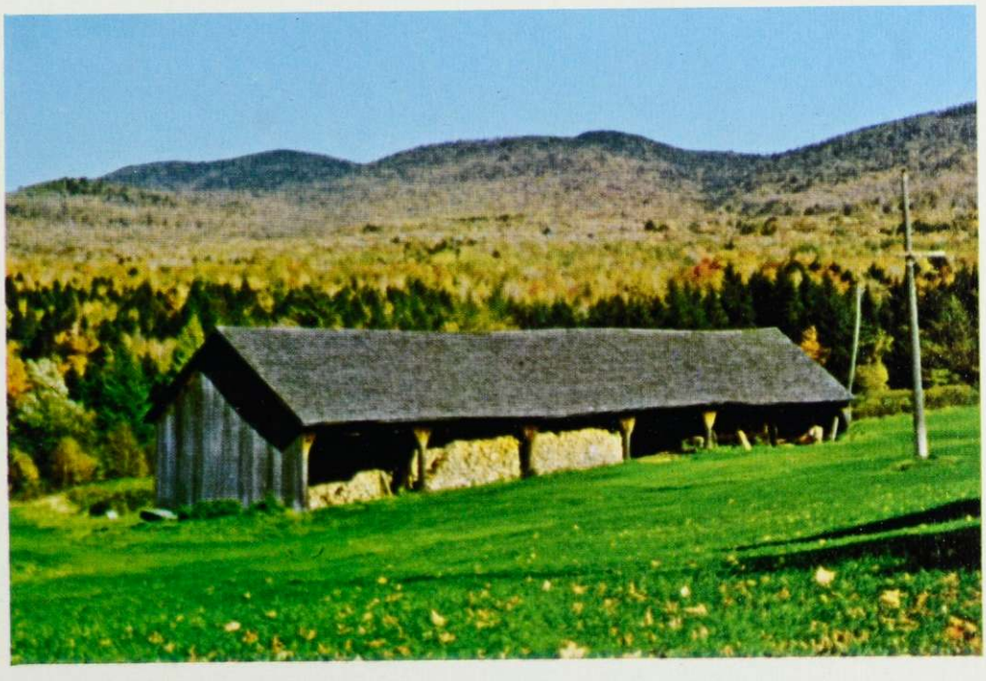
—Loren Eisely



"Our time is a time for crossing barriers, for erasing old categories — for probing ground. When two seemingly disparate elements are imaginatively poised, put in opposition in new and unique ways, startling discoveries often result."

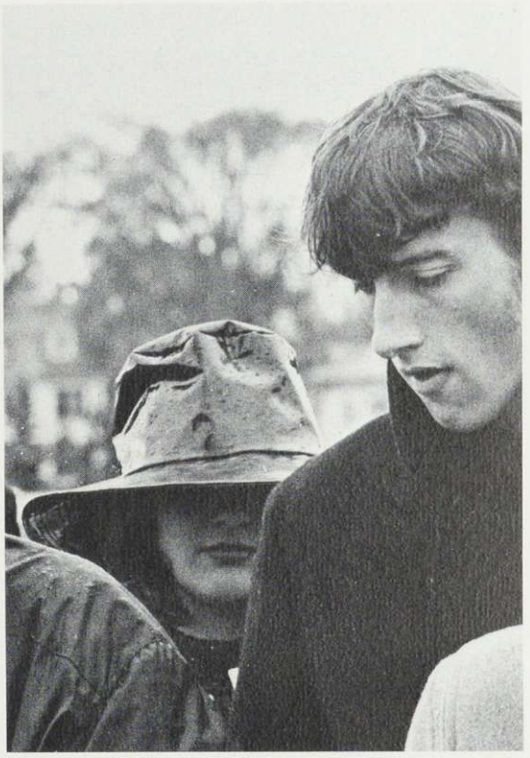
—McLuhan

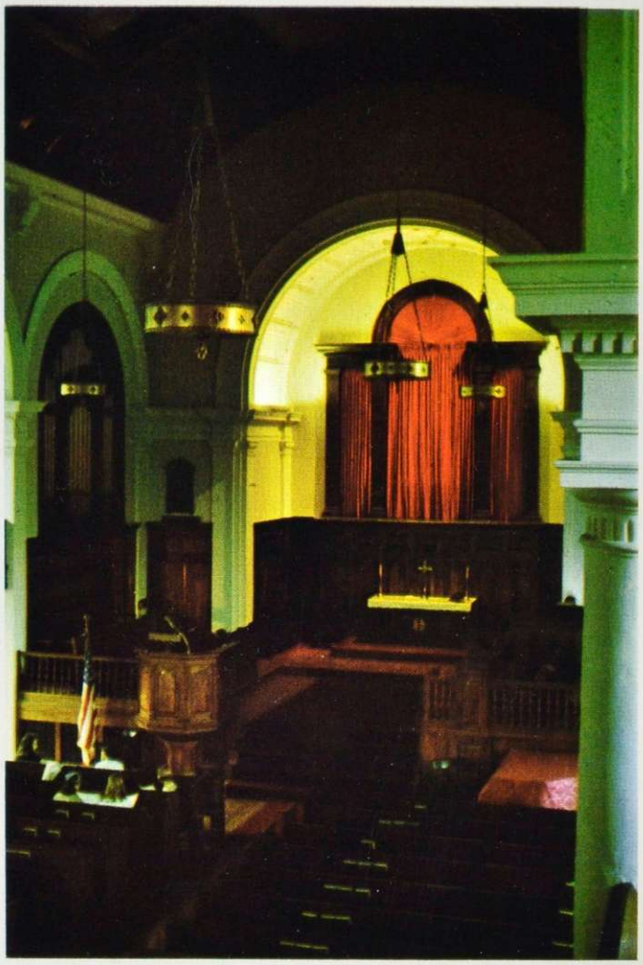


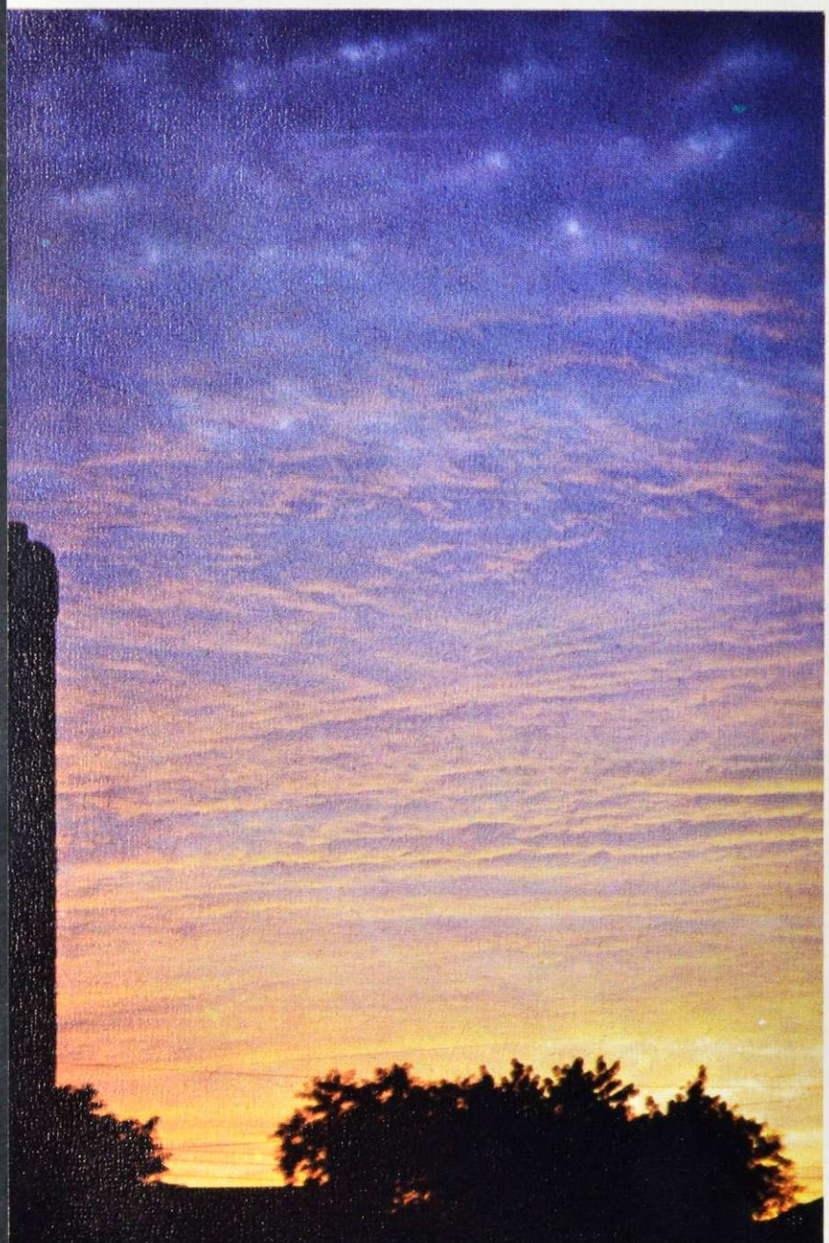


FOOTBALL

"Should you really open your eyes and see,
you would behold your image in all images.
And should you open your ears and listen,
you would hear your own voice in all voices."
—Kahil Gibran







The silent stretches of green the quiet halls with an occasional late-burning scholastic light held his imagination in a strong grasp, and the chastity of the spire became a symbol of this perception.

—F. S. Fitzgerald

"If it were not for our conception of weights and measures we would stand in awe of the firefly as we do
before the sun."

"But the years have brought to Martha a sense of essentials . . . the knowledge that cream is for coffee, lime juice for pies . . . and alcohol pure and simple . . . for the pure and simple. For the mind's blind eye, the heart's ease, and the liver's craw. Down the hatch all."

We may wonder furtively, remaining steadfast, however, against insinuating irresolutions.
Confide in bartenders, instead . . . or talk to ourselves, agreeing that all is for the best, that we are right — that no better way exists than strangling what is left of love.

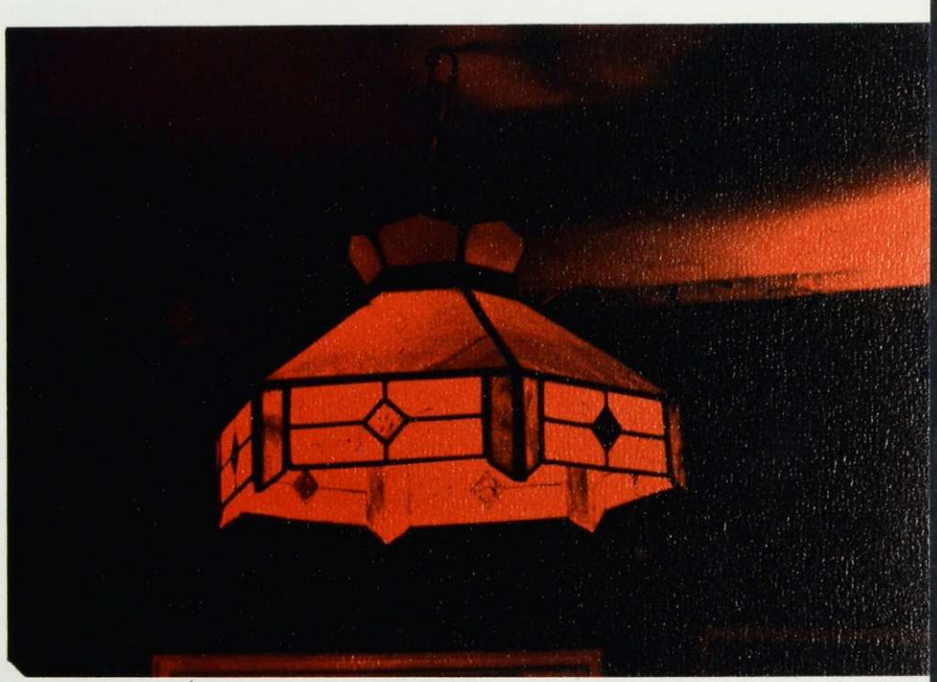
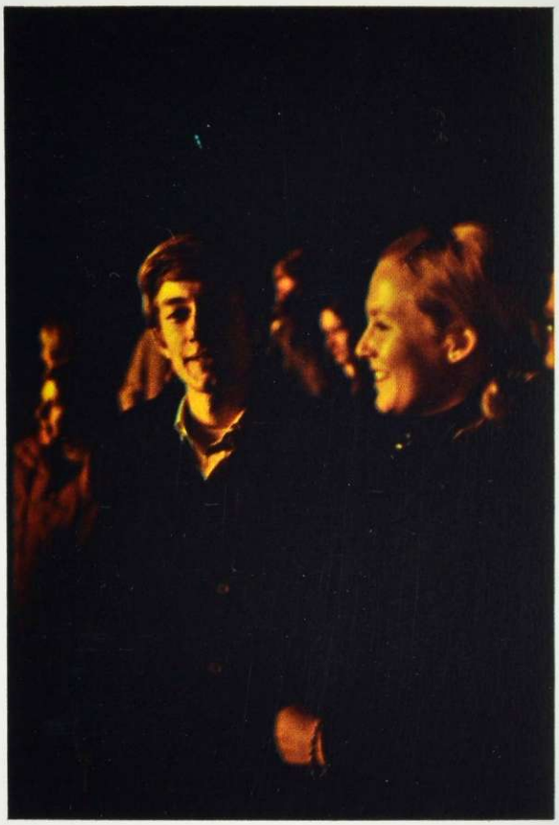
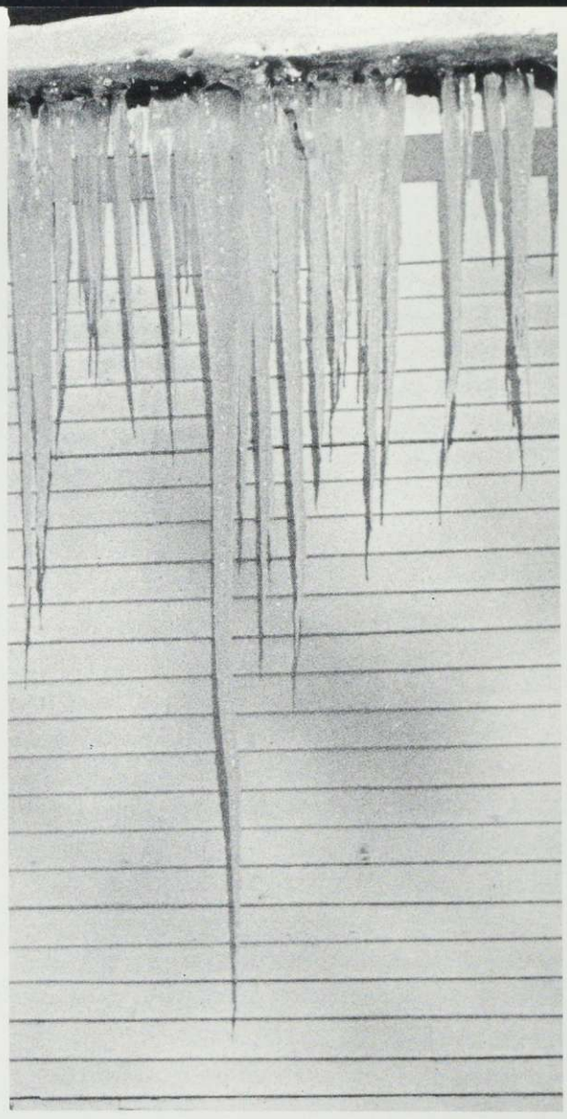
—Walter Benton



"If winter should say,
'Spring is in my heart,'
who would believe winter?"
—Kahil Gibran





"I want Spring, I want to turn like a mobile
In a new fresh air! I don't want to hibernate Between walls, between halls! I want to bear
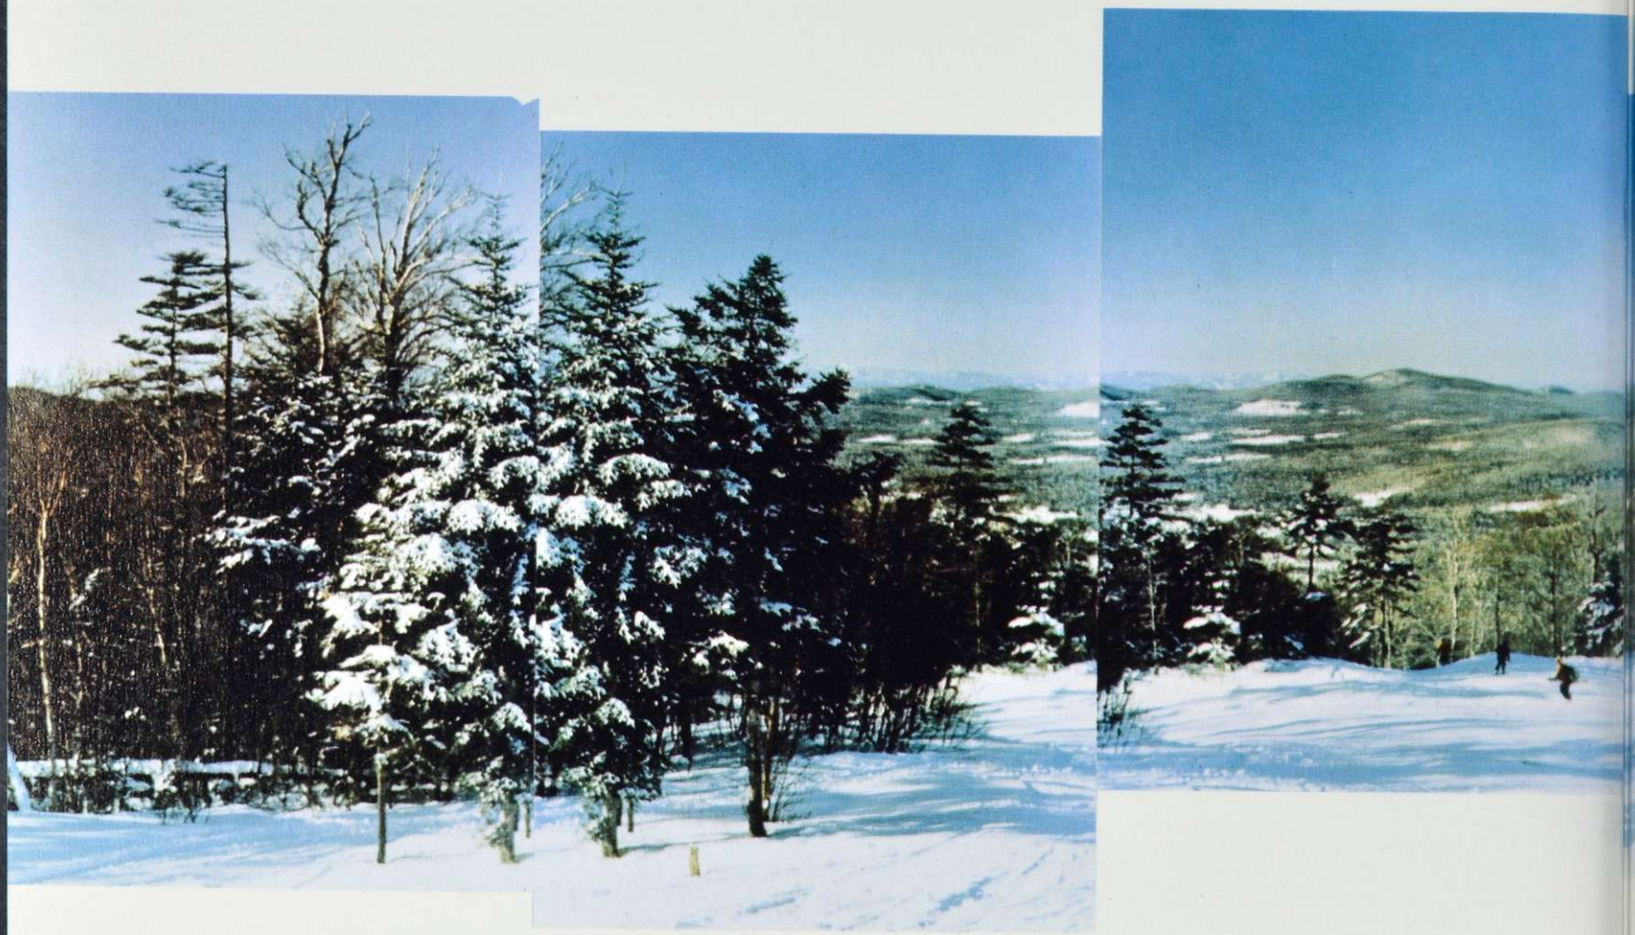
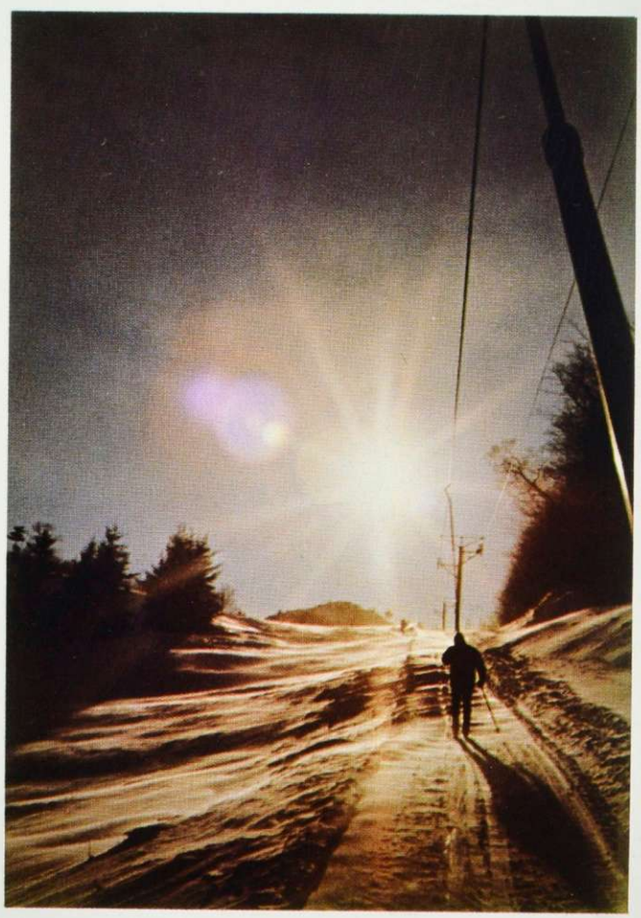
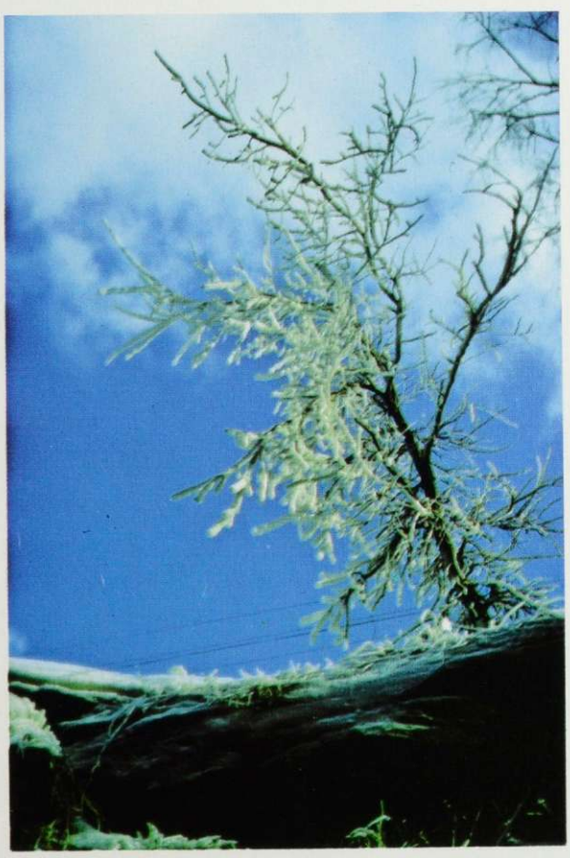
My share of the anguish of being succinctly here!
Not even moths in the spell of the flame
Can want it to be warmer so much as I do."

—Kenneth Koch







"There is no point
There is only moving
We leave ourselves behind
Our wheels unwind us.

What will we find at the end?
Ourselves again, but changed.

And once in a while, we take a day out of time, to meet, to celebrate the world which made us and which we are making."

—Alastair Reid

"I awoke with december's sky lapping joyously at my april's window."
—Kai Lee

" 'How long dare you concentrate on a feeling without risking having it fixed in your consciousness all the rest of your life?'
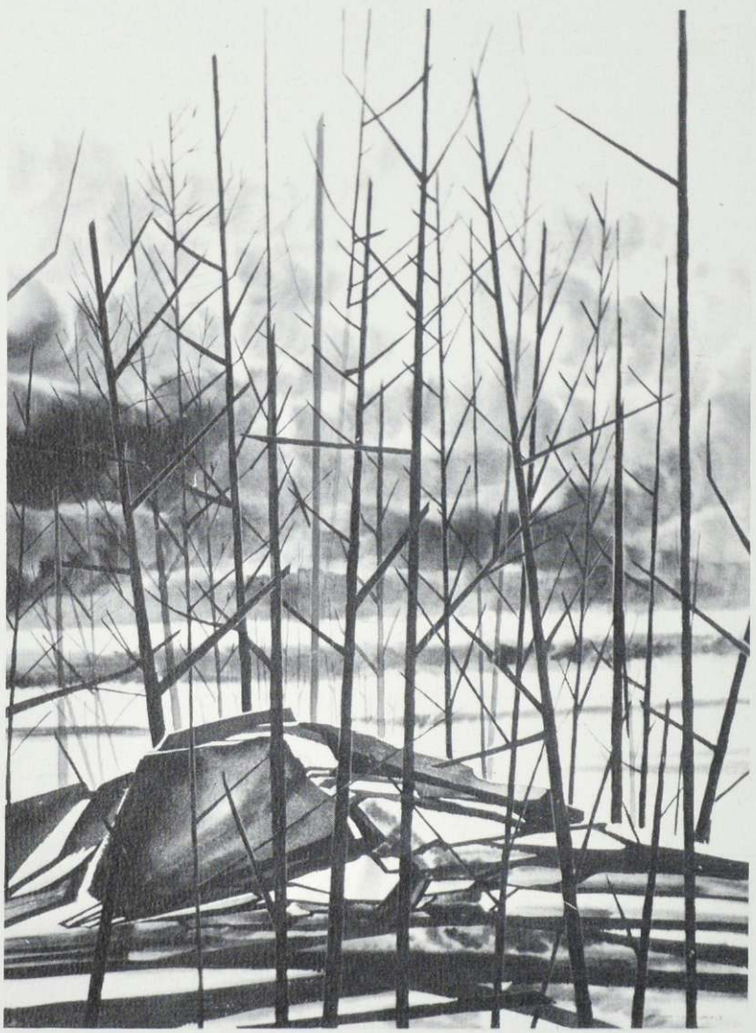
'Ninety minutes. An hour and a half.' "
—G. B. Shaw



"Learning, the educational process, has long been associated only with the glum. We speak of the 'serious' student. Our time presents an unique opportunity for learning by means of humor — a perceptive or incisive joke can be more meaningful than platitudes lying between two covers."
